

THE TO&THROUGH COMMUNITY MILESTONES TOOL OVERVIEW

Today, Chicago Public Schools (CPS) freshmen from a given community area are more dispersed than ever: about three in four opt out of attending their assigned neighborhood school, with many enrolling in schools outside of their community. The To&Through Community Milestones Tool is a publicly available online data resource that fills some of the critical gaps in community-centered education data in Chicago. The tool enables users to drill down into CPS educational attainment data through the lens of Chicago's 77 community areas.

When coupled with local relationships and a deep understanding of a community area's context, in addition to census data available on the tool, it provides a starting place for a more holistic understanding of CPS students' experiences and can equip Chicago's community-based educators and leaders with vital feedback on the support provided to their students on the path to and through high school and college.

Explore educational attainment data by community area for the CPS students who live there.

We recommend reflecting on the following questions while exploring the tool:

- How is high school choice exercised by families in my community?
- What factors outside of students' in-school experiences impact my community's data?
- What community strengths contribute to our students' success?
- How does the data confirm or challenge what I know about my community's educational choices and outcomes?
